Features

28 Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy: New Frontiers for an Old Remedy BY KATE DERNOCOEUR. Once considered a form of medical quackery, HBO is gaining acceptance as experimental proof of its effectiveness is becoming increasingly difficult to discredit.

33 Altitude Illness BY RAYMOND B. JOHNSON, et al. Altitude illness does not discriminate by gender or physical conditioning, but children appear to be more susceptible than adults.

42 Diving Injuries: Decompression Illness and Air Embolism BY PATRICIA A. TUMMINIA, RN AND MARIA F. DEARISO, RN. Because of the extensive heart, lung and brain damage that can occur, a high fatality rate is seen with air embolism. Every one of the over 2 million certified divers in the U.S. is at risk.
