Features

32 Surveying the Gender Gap: Attitudes on Women in EMS BY KATE DERNOCOEUR. Attitudes about women are changing—witness Geraldine Ferraro and the expanded women's Olympic events. An original jems survey explores viewpoints in EMS.

38 Converting Asystole BY KENNETH R. STULTS AND DONALD D. BROWN, MD. It is possible that ventricular fibrillation has a vector, and that using a single lead for monitoring may display it as a flat line.

40 Red Alert: Management of Emergency Patient Distribution BY ELAINE P. RICE AND GEORGE PELLETIER, JR. When a hospital is pushed past its limits, there had better be a plan to handle additional emergency patients—it's no time to wing it.

44 MCI vs. Disaster: An Overview of Mass Casualty Response BY RICHARD NARAD. The San Ysidro (Calif.) massacre was not a disaster; it was a mass casualty incident. Important differences dictate the appropriate approach to emergency response.

50 Thrombolytics in Acute MI BY BARBARA EILER. Information gathered in the field about heart patients can help expedite important time-sensitive in-hospital decisions on the administration of streptokinase.

54 Career Development Programs BY MARTIN YENAWINE. A career development program can provide an orderly way for all employees to come to grips with inevitable career change.
