FEATURES

36

- 36 BOOM! Lightning and Related Injuries BY PHIL B. FONTANAROSA, MD, FACEP. From its formation in the atmosphere to the unusual form of trauma it can inflict, lightning is an interesting phenomenon. Prepare for the lightning season.
- 44 Designer Drugs BY JOE DILLMAN, RPh. This update on common street names of today's most commonly abused drugs will help EMS personnel when communicating with users and trying to understand the user subculture.
- 48 Ambulance Manufacturers Survey STAFF REPORT. A listing of over 30 ambulance manufacturers gives the potential buyer a wide selection when deciding upon a rig.
- 55 Grandma Mildred Fell (CEU Article) BY TWINK GORGEN, RN. Because of normal aging changes, the geriatric patient is unable to compensate as well as younger adults, and normal assessment parameters are altered.
- 64 Expose Yourself to Radiation (Accident Management) BY RUSS MANNING. For those EMS personnel who may at some point treat radiation accident victims, preparedness includes the ability to decontaminate the victim while avoiding personal exposure.

Introducing The Clark Pediatric Unit

Designed Exclusively for Pediatric Patients Distributed Exclusively by Southern

The Clark pediatric unit is a new approach to a common problem. So new a patent is pending on it. So effective one person can administer C.P.R. while carrying a patient. So well designed it radically simplifies intubation and C spine immobilization. So cleverly laid out everything you need is within the easiest possible reach. And so compact it weighs less than 13 pounds, complete with everything except the patient. For ages birth - three years.

Complete outfit includes:

- The pediatric restraint board, with four straps for securing legs & torso.
- One cervical immobilization device.
- Two sand bags [foam filled].
- Two ankle restraints.
- Two locking drug compartments.
- One pediatric laryngoscope handle and two blades.
