Seeding Clouds of Change: 42 The Drought in Rural EMS

by Lee Reeder

A national rural EMS workshop was held recently to assess the present and future needs of rural EMS. These are described, along with the suggested solutions and who is responsible to act on them.

How The West Was Won: 50 A Systems Approach to EMS in The Texas Panhandle

by Steve Marshall, BS, NREMT-P, and Larry Croy, MPA, NREMT-P

Why, when so many other rural services are facing staggering obstacles, is the Texas Panhandle EMS system forging new frontiers in excellence?

Getting to The Heart of 54 Rural EMS

by David Foulk, EdD, and Rebecca Ryan, MPA

The authors examine the results of a survey conducted by the National Rural Health Association's task force to determine the most critical issues in the delivery of care to our nation's outlying areas.

Polishing Your Public 60 Image: The Reflection Can Be Rewarding

by Thomas H. Swan, NREMT-P

To survive in today's economy, it is crucial for a rural EMS agency to display a positive public image. It's everybody's job to ensure that the public's perceptions of professionalism in EMS are met.
